

Making a Mini-Forest

Date // 2 Dec 2024
Time // 18:00-20:00 AST
Location // Blue Zone,
Restoration Pavilion

Discover the global movement restoring native forests through Miyawaki “mini-forests.” Hannah Lewis, award-winning author of Mini-Forest Revolution, narrates an international journey across Western Europe, introducing ten organizations that plant mini-forests in cities, suburbs, along highways, and on farmland. One person sparks the imagination of another, and another, and this ripple effect creates an interconnected network of foresters. Witness the planning, planting and care involved in creating these mini-forests. Join us on a journey of environmental restoration and community empowerment.

There will be a Q&A session with the director afterwards.
