Submerged in the sea of greenwashing that drowns them daily, two Amazonian filmmakers have decided to denounce, in this film manifesto, the entrails of the historical process of inventing and exploiting the forest as an inexhaustible Garden of Eden. Between Munich and Belém, they reveal how racism and prejudice in Brazil and throughout the world are still organised around the idea of a “savage demographic emptiness” unable to speak for itself.

The director will be there in person to give a keynote before the screening and a Q&A session after the screening.
