The interactive session aims to foster long-term landscape restoration by uniting diverse local stakeholders to co-create a vision for the future. Participants will explore how landscapes transition from degradation to recovery across four impact areas (inspiration, social, natural, financial). Through group discussions and visual exercises, attendees will share insights, reflect on diverse perspectives, and collectively deepen their understanding of sustainable restoration. All individuals interested in holistic landscape revitalization are encouraged to join, including local practitioners, policymakers, researchers, and environmental enthusiasts.
